

Chloe Wilkins

Call: 2006

Chloe is a highly accomplished junior with a thriving care practice and regularly receives instructions to represent parents, grandparents, guardians and local authorities at all levels of the Family Court. She has a sensible and pragmatic approach to managing the needs of a case, and has a particular flair for trial advocacy.

Public Law Children

In private law proceedings Chloe is regularly instructed to advise and represent separated parents in Child Arrangement disputes. She has extensive experience of all section 8 Children Act 1989 applications and special guardianship applications. She regularly deals with cases involving implacable hostility, and allegations of domestic violence.

Private Law Children

Chloe is regularly instructed in fact-finding hearings and is experienced in representing both parents and local authorities in cases involving factitious and induced illness, non-accidental bruising, multiple fractures to infant children, and allegations of sexual abuse.
