

James Turner

Call: 2001

James specialises exclusively in child related matters and is known for his thorough and constructive approach in both public and private law cases.

Prior to becoming a barrister James worked as a researcher in the House of Lords and within the Home Office

Public Law Children

James represents parents, extended family members, local authorities and children's guardians. He is regularly instructed in matters concerning neglect, mental health, substance misuse, non-accidental injury, sexual abuse and jurisdictional issues. He has considerable experience of working with vulnerable clients, intermediaries and advocacy services.

Notable Public Law Children cases

- Re C (Lay Advocates) [2019] EWHC 3738 (Fam)
- Re D (A Child) [2017] EWHC 3075 (Fam)

Private Law Children

James represents clients in all areas of private law children matters. He is regularly instructed in protracted and sensitive cases that can require expert assessment and separate representation of subject children.
